

VISITORS HEAR JAMES E. TALMAGE

Many Strangers Attend Services
At the Tabernacle on Sunday Afternoon.

WERE ATTENTIVE AUDITORS.

Speaker Refers to Book of Mormon
Prophecies Regarding America—
Excellent Selections by Choir.

A large attendance was present at the tabernacle services yesterday afternoon. The day was ideal, a fact which induced many to come out. There were big crowds of visitors in the city, many of whom were conspicuous in the audience, and manifested a deep interest in the exercises. The musical part of the service was unusually good. The first hymn was "Hark! Listen to the trumpeters." The second was even a greater favorite, being "O My Father." The "Hallelujah Chorus" was the closing anthem. All of the selections were much appreciated by the vast audience.

The speaker was Dr. James E. Talmage, whose name alone, after a few introductory remarks, was a Book of Mormon prophecy, and their application to the government of the United States and the land of America. Modern prophecies given by Joseph Smith have also been changed, but that he reveals His will now as anciently.

The opening prayer was offered by Elder Hyrum M. Smith and President John R. Winder was in charge of the services.

ELDER JAMES E. TALMAGE.

Elder Talmage began by saying that it was characteristic of the age that men demand and obtain liberty for their worship. They either worship or abstain from it as they choose. Recently the people celebrated the Nation's birthday. A little later in the month the people of Utah will celebrate the arrival of the pioneers into the valley, and they have every reason to feel grateful for the liberty accorded them in this great government. The Latter-day Saints consider it a part of their creed to sustain those who have done and are doing much to uphold the government of the United States.

The Latter-day Saints accept the Bible in its entirety, with all its prophecies and promises. They believe the book as firmly as any people in the world. They are peculiar in that they believe in other revelations of God besides those in the Bible. Much of the history of the land of America was made known to the people of prehistoric America, knowledge of which is presented in the Book of Mormon. This book does not parallel the Bible which is a record of the Jews who are a branch of the house of Israel.

The Book of Mormon deals with another branch of Israel. The Bible is an eastern record while the Book of Mormon is a western record. The speech narrated briefly the circumstances connected with the journey of the Jaredites from the tower of Babel to America. He read from the book of Ether the story of the journey of the people into the wilderness and across the continent. Statements regarding the choice land to which they were going were also read, the necessity for the people serving God and the fact that no man should be in bondage. The condition in the United States today is a fulfillment of predictions.

The journey of the people of Lehi to America at a much later date, was also dwelt on and the speaker read further from the Book of Mormon regarding the rise of the great abominable church and the characters of the prophets. Statements regarding America in the last day, the discovery of it by Columbus, and various events following, including the war with England, these prophecies were understood hundreds of years ago. It was known that Columbus would discover America. God has many instruments to do His work. Columbus was as much inspired to do His work as any of the prophets, and the choice of this man was shown to prophets hundreds of years before the beginning of the Christian era. It was also shown that many others would follow his pioneering and they would come from oppression and intolerance to a land of liberty. This was fulfilled by the Pilgrim fathers whom God blessed and prospered.

PROPHETCY REVIEWED.

A later prophecy made by another American prophet was then referred to as having reference to the future of this land, as an inheritance of the house of Israel. It was said the Gentiles shall be blessed upon it and there should be no kings upon it. We Latter-day Saints hold the promise of America as the land of Zion, and we feel safe thereon. It was said there shall be no kings upon this land. A determined effort was made at one time to set up a king by Maxonidian. The effort was futile because He whose power was greater than man had said there shall be no king upon this land. The soil is not fit for royal plants, declared the speaker.

Patriotism should be a part of the religion of the Latter-day Saints, who have been taught to believe great things in favor of their government, which has been highly favored of God. He referred again to the passage stating there should be no kings upon the land. The story of Amlece was told, who thought he could make himself king. He and others were seeking for power, notwithstanding the preaching of the servants of God. Many believed in his smooth words, but he was overthrown.

STRUGGLES FOR LIBERTY.

"The war of Independence was not the first struggle for liberty on American soil," said the speaker. "Other struggles had taken place hundreds of years before." The Latter-day Saints have other revelations which they believe, as well as the Bible and the Book of Mormon. The section of the Doctrine and Covenants in relation to the Civil war was then read. This prophecy was in print in the thirties. The revealing to His prophets of future events is not a bygone habit with the Lord. In addition to the above prophecy, Joseph Smith predicted in 1827 that the Latter-day Saints would journey to the Rocky mountains and become a great people. This was fulfilled in the journey in the face of hardships in 1847. The headquarters of the Church will always be here. It is the one peculiar American Church. It was not recognized as such at the parliament of religions, but the Church has had to meet ignorance and prejudice before. It will flourish in spite of all opposition and will become better known as the years pass. After the singing of the "Hallelujah" chorus by the choir, benediction was pronounced by Elder Heber J. Grant.

PAT MORAN SCORES ON PAVING RECORD

Finishes Re-Surfacing Main Street
With Twenty-seven Days to Spare
On Contract Limit.

Patrick J. Moran, the official contractor, completed the resurfacing on Main street between South Temple and Fourth South street this afternoon in 41 days, which is just 27 days sooner than was called for by the contract. There was no bonus attached to the work but there was a penalty clause of $100 a day attached. This, however, did not worry Moran. The contract was let on June 1 and was to be completed on Aug. 7.

On the morning of June 2, Moran commenced work with an army of men. Frank Gavan, who had supervision of the work, handled it in a masterly manner. The street was kept open for traffic and the merchants had no complaints to make in delays to them in delivering their goods.

Then the car tracks were torn up, replaced in a concrete base and laid with heavier rails. The traffic was not impeded in the least. When the curves were taken up at the monument at South Temple street, it was found necessary to change the routes of some of the cars for two days while the heavy frogs and switches were being relaid.

The workmen began laying the last stretch of asphaltum about 9 o'clock this morning. It was then the curves around the monument. This work had to be done mostly by hand because the steam roller could not be used to advantage on account of the numerous curves and angles. It will be completed, however, by this evening.

In handling this work Moran illustrated to the people what he could do. The work went along smoothly and with precision. Moran's figures were high but the chances he took warranted something in the way of extra compensation.

Whether the drug was taken with suicidal intent, or whether the overdose was a mistake in quantity is unknown. The dead man left nothing to indicate either who he was or his motive for self-destruction.

Riggs arrived in the city, so far as is known, last Wednesday, and secured a room at the Lincoln House. He was found in his room at an early hour Sunday morning under the influence of the drug, and was removed to the emergency hospital by the police, where Dr. F. B. Steele worked over him for over two hours, without avail.

At the hotel nothing was known of the man, except that he had been in the room several times within the past year, his stays never exceeding three or four days. He had formed no friends or acquaintances about the hotel, and seemed to collect from all patients who were able to pay because

"Be it further resolved, that we request the county commissioners to support this movement by not granting liquor licenses after Dec. 31, 1909."

CHARGES DISCRIMINATION.

Husband of Smallpox Patient Objects
To Health Department Bill.

Charles J. Erickson, of 55 west Second North street sent a letter Saturday to the city recorder addressed to the city council in which he claims that he has been discriminated against by the city health department. When his wife was taken to the isolation hospital on March 2, suffering from smallpox, he was induced, he says, to sign a note promising to pay $2 a day for her care, which he has not done. He believed that this was the general custom until he investigated the matter. In the letter, he says, that few have paid and that many patients who were more able to pay than he was, were not charged a cent.

Dr. M. R. Stewart, health commissioner, says that the council authorized the department to collect from all patients who were able to pay because

CHAPEL CAR COMING.

Catholic Church on Wheels is Due to

The Catholic church chapel car, St. Anthony, will be in this city Friday next. The object of the car is to conduct religious services for people in country places where there are no regular church privileges, and is in charge of Rev. A. P. Landry, secretary of the extension society, and George J. Hennessy, superintendent of chapel car services. It is estimated that in Philadelphia the car was visited by 15,000 people in one day. The car has, since its dedication a year ago, been in service in the western states. It is a complete chapel, with moveable pews seating about 100 people, and contains private state rooms for the priest in charge, a dining room and kitchen. The car was given to the Catholic Church Extension society by Ambrose Petry, president of the Commercial Securities company of New York, who recently was created a knight of St. Gregory the Great by Pope Pius.

RINGLING CIRCUS
HEADING THIS WAY

Brigade of Billers Arrives and is Plastering the Town With Attractive Paper.
Ringling Brothers' circus is to exhibit in Salt Lake City Monday, Aug. 2. In its entirety from the 1,200 people employed, the wonderful herd of 40 elephants, the 14 acres of canvas, 108 cage zoo, to the pink lemonade man, the circus will be transported to this city from Hawkins, Wyo., in 35 double-length railroad cars.

The brigade of "billers" arrived last night, in one of the largest and most modern equipped advertising cars ever constructed. The interior is handsomely finished in oak and has "rail the comforts of home." It contains two spacious offices, in which the executive business is conducted, a gentleman's smoking compartment, and the billers are so arranged that each person has practically a private section. It is from this car that the first "biving matter" is posted and distributed. Early this morning seven wagons loaded with paper and billposters were dispatched into the country, where every barn, fence and billboard within 50 miles will be clothed in posters announcing the marvels in store for those who come to town on show day.

This season Ringling Brothers present to the public what they claim to be the largest show in the world. Their big tent will comfortably seat 15,000 persons, and 375 performers take part in the program. The feats and features are presented in three rings, on two stages, a quarter-mile racing track and upon a forest of overhanging appliances. Two-thirds of the artists are from America, having made their debut under the Ringling banner this season, at New York City, March 25.

Among the animal performers are the Schumann horses, from Germany. These animal actors are said to smoke pipes, drink from large glasses, sleep the rope and roll one another about in huge beer barrels; Kealey's elephants that telephone, talking with one another from the front to rear end of the big tent; Kerslake's comedy porkines that shoot the chutes, walk the rope, climb ladders, walk on rolling globes and perform various other stunts that never fail to provoke laughter.

The performance this year begins with a new spectacle and closes with a thriller. Seated in an automobile of tremendous power and ponderous weight, Mlle. La Belle Roche releases the car and guides the whirling monster down a precipice-like steel track. At the incline's terminal the charger swings from an upward curve and describes two complete revolutions, in mid-air, before it lands safely upon the hippodrome track and spends its wild race.

The big new street parade which is making the Ringlings more famous than ever, will move promptly on show day morning at 10 o'clock, following the route usually taken.
